

WOMEN SEEK THE RIGHT TO VOTE

MOB OF A THOUSAND SUFFRAGETTES ATTACK PARLIAMENT TODAY.

POLICE ARREST LEADERS

Strong Speeches Made by the Leaders Relative to the Outcome of the Vote in House of Lords.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) London, Nov. 18.—Parliament will be dissolved on November 28, according to announcement by Premier Asquith today. This hastens the general election before Christmas.

The premier was defiant when he arose to address the House of Commons today and made it plain the Liberals were determined to give the people the opportunity to say whether the Lords were to be retained as a part of the legislative system.

Non-riots have been in progress around the Parliament building all day as the result of the activity of the suffragettes. Three hundred and fifty of the more militant made a concerted attack upon the police guard in an effort to enter the structure. The suffragettes were under the leadership of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and made an attack on parliament soon after the session opened today. Twelve women and one man were arrested.

There were about 1,000 suffragettes engaged in the fight with police surrounding parliament buildings. Several times the women were driven back, but each time returned to the attack and it required additional police to finally stop them.

A large contingent of American blue-jackets from the visiting fleet were amused spectators of the struggle, and justly cheering the combatants, incited them to fresh efforts.

The police were compelled to make wholesale arrests, and eighty-two suffragettes and their supporters have already been taken into custody.

Premier Asquith, in presenting the government program in the commons, declared there will be no amendment or modification in the vote bill and the Lords must say "yes" or "no." The question is solely one of acceptance or rejection, he said, and if necessary the controversy will "be sent for a final, decisive arbitration to the national tribunal." Asquith then delivered all other legislation which the government proposed to pass before the dissolution of parliament.

Balfour, leader of the opposition, and Barnes, the labor leader, made speeches attacking the government's program.

The local committee is in receipt of advices indicating that the attendance will be larger and of a more representative character than at any of the previous meetings of the organization.

FOOTBALL CLIMAXES IN WEST AND EAST

Minnesota Plays Michigan at Ann Arbor and Is Slight Favorite in Betting—2 to 1 on Harvard.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 18.—Not since the Chicago-Michigan gridiron battles were discontinued in 1905 has so much interest been taken in a football game in the West as is manifested in the contest between Minnesota and Michigan on Perry Field tomorrow, the crucial game in the year's struggle for the Western championship. Hundreds of visitors, including big delegations of alumni of both institutions from all over the West are arriving in town on every train and the indications are that tomorrow's crowd will be the largest that ever witnessed a football game in Ann Arbor.

Minnesota is a slight favorite in the betting, a natural result of the excellent showing made by the Gophers since the beginning of the season. The Minnesota money is finding the Michigan money, however, giving evidence of the fact that the followers of the Gophers have not lost faith in their team and have confidence in its ability to hold its own against the formidable Minnesota team.

Yale and Harvard. Nov. 18.—Thousands of followers of the blue and the crimson are gathering here for tomorrow's football game which will award the honors of the year to either Yale or Harvard. Every train from east and west today brought its quota of enthusiasts. Clubs and fraternity houses are keeping open for the visitors, among whom are thousands of freshmen and graduates of the two universities. Practically every ticket for the field has been disposed of, and the Yale stands are sure to hold a record-breaking crowd tomorrow. Coaches on both sides were confident today. Harvard is a favorite in the betting, some bets at odds of nearly 2 to 1 being offered on her chances.

WILL ADDRESS CLUB

Carl D. Thompson, City Clerk of Milwaukee, Will Speak to Social Union Club Tuesday Evening.

Plans have been perfected for an exceptionally good meeting of the Social Union club next Tuesday evening, Nov. 22, at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. The general subject for the program is Political Parties. Their Purposes and Underlying Principles, and all the phases of the present political situation will be discussed. The address of the evening will be given by Carl D. Thompson, city clerk of Milwaukee, on the subject of the Social Democratic Party. Mr. Thompson comes from the center of social democratic activity and is one of its ardent supporters and leaders. He was one of the chief speakers at the peace conference held at Chicago about a year ago and he also spoke at a great national social democratic convention two years ago. From his wide experience as a party leader a comprehensive address may be expected. The program follows:

1. "The Republican Party" A. E. Matheson.
2. "The Democratic Party" C. J. Hendricks.
3. "The Rise of Progressive Republicanism" Jesse Carle.
4. "The Social Democratic Party" Carl D. Thompson, city clerk of Milwaukee.

CENTENARY OF A GREAT BOTANIST

Harvard University Pays Special Tribute to Memory of Asa Gray, Professor There, from 1842 to 1873.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—The centenary of Asa Gray, the famous American botanist, was celebrated with special exercises today at Harvard University, where he spent thirty-one years as professor of natural history. Born at Paris, N. Y., Nov. 18, 1819, Dr. Gray first devoted himself to medicine, the practice of which he later abandoned to pursue his studies in natural history. His connection with Harvard University began in 1842 and continued until 1873, when he withdrew from the position to devote himself to the care and study of his herbarium. Dr. Gray was one of the first of American naturalists to accept and champion the principles of evolution as extended to organic species by Darwin. For ten years he served as president of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and he was also honored with the presidency of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

SANCTIONED BY THE BOARD

Janesville Will Bear Twenty Per Cent of the Burden—Supervisors Adjourn This Afternoon.

After an interesting inspection of the county farm where everything was found to be running smoothly and where the supervisors were the guests of Supt. Daniels at a sumptuous dinner, the county board resumed its deliberations at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Supervisor Gettle, again taking issue with Supervisor Tuller's resolution, to deprive the highway committee of some of its most important prerogatives, urged that an active body of that kind was necessary to secure the best results and keep the board in touch with what was going on in the good roads department. He had voted for a reduction of the salary of Highway Commissioner from $1,200 to $1,000 on the supposition that an active committee was to be retained. The $200 saved by the salary cut would more than defray all of the committee's expenses. Supervisor Tuller believed that too many cooks spoiled the broth. Activity on the part of the highway committee, he was persuaded, only produced friction in the department and in this instance would give better satisfaction than several. Chairman Paul had ruled that the resolution was not an amendment of the county board rules and was in order. It was defeated 25 to 13. Supervisor Richardson being absent at the time the question was put.

S. S. Jones Booke, the newly elected Highway Commissioner, was called upon for a speech. In a brief address he stated that although the salary had been cut he was going to accept the office and endeavor to give the county at least $7,500 to $2,000 worth of service. When asked to be a candidate three years ago he had not felt equal to the task but the experience gained during the intervening time he now considered himself as fully qualified. Quite aside from any personal considerations in the matter, he believed with Supervisor Moore that "without a fair compensation the office would eventually fail to attract the most capable men." He was going to keep an expense account and he was convinced that the dimensions

AN ELABORATE DINNER DANCE LAST EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. Ann Hough Entertain At Their Residence On St. Lawrence Avenue.

What was the most elaborate dinner dance ever given in Janesville, and the first large private dancing party of the present season, was held last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ann Hough, 109 St. Lawrence avenue. Sixty invited guests sat down to a sumptuous turkey dinner at six thirty, the tables being laid throughout the first floor of the house and on the spacious porches which had been enclosed in glass and heated by steam pipes. Southern amaranth, palms and chrysanthemums were used in the decorative scheme and Bach's orchestra from Milwaukee, stationed on the landing on the second floor, rendered beautiful music throughout the dinner hour and later played for the dancing until a late hour this morning. At nine o'clock five dance guests arrived and from then until morning the third floor, which has been transformed into a handsome ball room, was the scene of a gay throng. The orchestra was hidden behind a lattice at the end of the hall and delicious punch was served in a tiny room at the head of the stairs. The whole floor is taken up by the ball room which has electric lights on the ceiling and walls and is decorated with a rose fresco, the wood work being in gold and ivory. The music played for the dances was classical and most delightful. One of the delightful features of the evening's entertainment was "The Million Game" invented by Mr. Hough, which was played on two large wheels by all the guests, the prizes being awarded to the two winners, Mrs. S. Nolan and Fred Clements. At midnight a second tempting buffet supper was served on the porch to the guests. Bridge tables and cozy corners were also in evidence for those who did not care to dance. It was one of the most elaborate affairs ever given in the city.

SUPPER TICKETS

SELLING RAPIDLY

Merchants Are Showing Hearty Approval of Plan For A Retailers' Organization.

For years there has been much talk among the retailers of this city about getting together and forming some sort of an organization, but the plan never was developed further than the "talk."

Monday night, through the efforts of the retail committee of the Commercial Club and Secretary DeArmand, the retailers will have an opportunity of forming a closely knit band that will become a great factor in the work of making Janesville progress.

The two committees that were out yesterday selling tickets for this supper met with a royal welcome in almost every store they visited. Suggestions and encouragement were passed out by every progressive retailer who was called upon—they were practically unanimous in their approval of the plan and showed the committees that they were confident be done for the retailers. From present indications the capacity of the big dining room at the Myers Hotel, will be taxed on Monday night. Those who haven't been called upon are requested to get their tickets early, for the plan of the supper those having tickets will be given preference, and as the order for the supper will be placed early Monday morning the committee does not promise to be able to serve those who have no tickets.

As stated before in these columns, Mr. Lee H. Pierce of Winona will give the principle address of the evening.

Saturday Millinery Sale

BUSINESS OFFICE OPEN SATURDAY EVENING.

CARY IS RIGHT.

"State Superintendent Cary is for the high school and the common school let come what may; and so say we all of us. The higher education is for the few, the other for the many." The latter, perhaps 98 to 2, are entitled to first consideration by the thoughtful citizen. Colleges and universities, glorious in their way, must take a secondary place in the ideal educational scheme. And to the very end must Professor Cary proclaim that doctrine, nor ever swerve an instant from the straight, plain path. The common school system must have its apex at the high school, not beyond. The ninety-eight boys and girls out of each hundred should no longer be obliged, from the ward school up, to have their studies shaped for vague possibilities beyond the high school, wasting years on languages and mathematics of little avail in everyday life merely that they may be prepared for the higher education that but one out of the many ever reaches."—Hudson Democrat.

This sentiment, coming from a conservative paper published in the shadow of the state university, is significant and indicates that Superintendent Cary has some strong supporters.

The press of the country is slow to endorse any educational movement which conflicts in any way with the policy of higher education as outlined by the college and university. "There is a reason," editorial writers on the metropolitan and magazine press, with rare exception, are college men. Many of them are young men whose trend of thought is as theoretical as the text book and environment which inspires it.

They are the mouthpiece of higher education, and in closer touch with educators, than with the larger constituency known as the common people.

The average home is not only densely ignorant concerning the methods of education, but equally indifferent, and so the average child is turned loose to browse around in the public schools and when graduating from the grades, as 98 per cent of them do, the parent discovers that there isn't much to show for the browsing.

The State School for the Blind is the target for all sorts of educational fads, because it is on the accredited list, and this covers a multitude of sins. Latin is included in the course of study, and yet everybody knows that if a blind boy could recite Latin until he was black in the face the accomplishment wouldn't be worth a nickel to him in his struggle as a bread winner.

The blind are required to put up with this sort of imposition, because the public know little and care less about how they are educated. Sympathy expends itself in providing a home for them at state expense during their school years.

The School for the Blind is a negligible quantity compared to the public schools of the state, and Superintendent Cary is alive to the fact that the peoples' university is suffering because of state university domination.

The same thought dominated the mind of Ella M. Young, superintendent of the Chicago schools, when she established a two year high school course for the benefit of the masses.

This reform sentiment is growing, in the minds of educators, throughout the country, and good results will follow.

A MUCH NEEDED REFORM.

One of the fallacies of organized labor is the restricted output, whereby an inferior workman receives the same pay as an expert. These injustices to both employer and employee are so apparent that they have at last been recognized, as will be seen by the following:

tails of a new departure in trade-union methods which is of the highest importance. It involves a principle capable of almost revolutionizing present conditions. The Brassmakers' Association and the National Society of Brassworkers and Metal Mechanics, two British unions covering the entire trade, have unanimously endorsed the proposal to grade their members according to capacity.

"The grading includes five classes, from the improver of twenty-one years of age to the completely qualified workman, expert in all processes and also able to work to scale drawings or blue prints. The union, in fact, guarantees the quality of the work. The agreement provides against arbitrary reductions in grade, nor is it possible for the employer to keep the workman in a grade below his true capacity. The best man gets the best wages, as he ought to do in every trade and calling."

The Wall Street Journal in commenting, says:

"Unquestionably labor unions have rights, but the union leaders forget that they have also responsibilities. If they can demand that a bricklayer in New York shall receive the highest wages in the world, they are morally bound to see that he does the best work in the world. A good bricklayer can lay fifteen hundred bricks a day easily, and plenty can lay two thousand. The union has in recent times reduced that output to seven hundred. This is common ordinary swindling, and the plea that it provides work for so many more men is fallacious. It means just so much waste and it destroys exactly that amount of power to create employment."

"The curious part about the brass-workers' plan is that it is as old as trade-unionism itself. It defines exactly the conditions enforced by the trade guilds of the Middle Ages. The workman then was proud of his dexterity. He stood up for the rights of his fellows, but he did not demand that the incompetent should receive the same wages as the competent, because in so doing he would degrade the best man to the level of the most stupid. This is precisely what our trades-unions are doing today. A first-class workman restricted in quality and output to less than his capacity is demoralized thereby. He deteriorates all the time, and if he has any consciousness at all, he knows that he is a shirker and a cheat."

"This is a move in the right direction, and if generally adopted would accomplish much for organized labor. Under present conditions there is no incentive to ambition, and when ambition is destroyed the man is deprived of his birthright."

It used to be a popular notion that all men are created free and equal, but the equality end of the proposition has long since been discarded. Men with equal opportunity succeed or fail in the same line of business, and so in the industrial world, some artisans become expert, while others fall to advance.

The government is the only employer which treats every man as equal. The standard wage of $13.00 per month for army service is not very inviting, and it is not surprising that recruits are always in demand. But out in the larger field, the employer of every class recognizes merit and skill, and rewards with promotion are constantly occurring.

Organized labor in America will do well to follow the lead of the brass-workers on the other side, for it recognizes both justice and common sense, and is worthy of adopting.

The day of $30,000,000 fines has passed. Judge McCall of the federal court in Tennessee has just decided in the case of the government against the Standard Oil company, that there was no cause for action. The case was of the same order as the one tried before Judge Landis of Chicago, two years ago. If the Standard Oil company was guilty, in either case, the railroads participating were equally guilty, and with fines of this magnitude piling up, every railroad in the country would have been facing bankruptcy.

As it Goes.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

Last eve I sought the church and heard a gifted pastor preach the Word. He talked of men whose days were over two thousand years ago or more. He sceptres were reduced to rust so long ago their stories seem like fragments of a summer dream. He said no word of those who strive in this old world, intense, alive, who fight their battles every day, obscurely, in their feeble way. I'd just as soon be in the dark concerning Father Noah's ark; I care not for the tents of David, or Joseph's corn, or Jonah's whale; I want to hear my pastor talk about the people on this block, whose lives are full of things and snarls, whose problems often break their hearts. I'd rather learn how Pharaoh blew his dough about five thousand years ago. The dust of kings in ancient ground is worth a half a cent a pound; and Ashur's widows' tears were dried before old Julius Caesar died; the things of which my pastor talks are dead as Adam's brimmed ox, but all around us there are cries, and wringing hands and weeping eyes. He'll have to get his text on straight, and bring his gospel up to date.

As it Goes.

"I cannot too heartily commend," said the great man in submitting his subordinate's report, "the work I have required him to do in his department."

LYRIC THEATRE

Offers a Program of Unusual Merit.

This week's bill is a winner. It's better than the best of any performance we have yet shown. This bill contains an act that can be obtained by no other house. It is not booked on the regular circuit. This act meant a much heavier expense to us than ordinarily, but we are sure our patrons appreciate it and gladly do it. The admission remains the same.

The Payne Children

This act is a wonder. The young cast vaudeville team in the world, yet their acting is on a par with vaudeville professionals, in many cases far better. You should see these little folks act. Their performance, singing and dancing, interspersed with some very acceptable comedy, receives round after round of applause. They deserve it. Here the balance of the week.

Charlotte Duncan,

Singing and dancing soubrette, dainty and petite, offers an acceptable act.

Two new reels of the best pictures, from the best makers in the land. Two new illustrated songs, by Chas. Mayo, of the rich baritone. Regardless how cold the weather the Lyric is always comfortably warm. Just the place for solid enjoy ment.

HIGH SCHOOL FRAT PROBLEM SETTLED

Members Have Signed Resolutions Promising to Discontinue Fraternities as a High School Organization. As a high school organization the Kappa Sigma Phi fraternity is no more. Resolutions were passed to the members by Superintendent Buell about three weeks ago, which read to the effect that the members of the fraternity would agree to permanently withdraw from the present secret organization and refrain from joining any other while connected with the high school. All the members with one exception after consultation with their parents have signed these resolutions and it is thought that the one remaining will not hold off for a much longer time. Many of the parents came to the school authorities and expressed themselves favorably regarding the disbanding of the fraternity. School officials all over the country have held that fraternities have no place in the high schools and it is gratifying that this matter which has proved so troublesome in many of the schools of the country has been so amicably settled here.

COLLEGE PLAYERS TO BE MATCHED AGAINST LOCALS

Basketball Team From Beloit College to Meet Lakota Cardinals Here This Evening.
 A team composed of players from Beloit college is to be the opponent of the Lakota Cardinals at the West Side rink building this evening and promise of much interesting sport is given.

The college team play under the inter-collegiate rules, which permit more freedom of play and is quite popular with the fans of this city. They have a strong team and the contest will undoubtedly be close. In anticipation of a stiff battle for the honors the Cardinals have practiced hard in order that the experience of the game with the Madison five may not be repeated. The line up of the Cardinals this evening will be: Bennett, center; Murphy, Robertson and Cunningham, forwards; Langdon and Green, guards.

Just as important. A great deal is heard of the art of remembering, and but little of the fine art of forgetting.

MRS. MARY MOONEY WAS LAID AT REST TODAY
Was One of the Early Settlers of the County—Died Monday at Brookfield.

Edgerton, Nov. 18.—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Mooney, who died at Brookfield, Monday, and the remains brought here Thursday, took place at ten o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Rev. J. E. Harlin officiating. The deceased was the wife of the late Thomas Mooney, one of the early settlers in this community. She is survived by three sons and three daughters and was sixty-eight years of age at the time of her demise.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Edward Terrell.
After eight months illness with stomach trouble, Mrs. Edward Terrell, aged 52 years, passed away last evening at half past six o'clock at her home, 308 North High street. Mrs. Terrell had been a resident of Janesville for the past quarter of a century. She was born in County Antrim, Ireland, and came to this city from the same place. Her husband and one son, William Russell of this city, are left to mourn her loss. She was a woman deeply beloved by many in this city. She was a member of the Congregational church. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home, 308 North High street.

AN ENTERTAINMENT BY BLIND STUDENTS

Clever Work Done By Pupils at the State School for Unfortunates.

The pupils at the State School for the Blind gave a unique Thanksgiving entertainment last evening in the assembly room, which was decorated with the fruits of the field for the occasion. The spirit of thankfulness was in the air, and from the little folks in the kindergarten, who developed the caterpillar into the butterfly through many fairy stages, to the more sedate numbers, the joy of living in this glad season of bounty found full expression. The school is a happy household and Supt. Brown and his wife are filling full the mission assigned, by intelligent and thoughtful service.

Extraordinary Piano Offer
20 Music Lessons Free!

With every new Newmann Bros. Piano purchased from now, Nov. 19 up to Christmas we will absolutely give free 20 music lessons, as a Christmas present. Newmann Bros. pianos need no introduction to musical people, they are used in churches, conservatories, schools public halls and homes, and are endorsed by artist and amateur.

Piano selling plan of special interest to Music Teachers.

The Important Point Of This Offer

First—You may select your own teacher, one who lives in your own neighborhood if you choose.
Second—This teacher may help you select the piano, should you desire such assistance.
Third—We pay for the 20 music lessons, the two terms, which may extend over a period of six months.
Fourth—You buy the piano at the low price, the same price that prevails throughout the year, for cash or the installment plan.

An Exceedingly Liberal Offer

Consider that two terms of music lessons will be an excellent start in a musical education. Our rent up stairs is low, compared to a store below, and we are giving you the difference in value, and can afford to make you this liberal offer as a Christmas gift. Our stock of pianos is complete in different styles of wood and finish, superb designs in case work, and all are guaranteed as to material and workmanship. Quality, not quantity is the keynote in the manufacturing of the Newmann Bros. Pianos.

Now Is The Time to see your teacher, come with the teacher to my piano parlors, make your selection and start at once your musical education at the same time. Remember the sale will start tomorrow, select your piano, scarf and stool or bench free, with 20 music lessons free. We are ready to sell a car load of pianos before Christmas on these terms.

DO IT NOW.

GENERAL LEVY OF $110,853.56

vidos for the levy of taxes for various needs in the following amounts: General Purposes, $50,000; Soldiers' Relief, $5,500; Permanent highway fund (three-tenths of a mill) $10,500; county school tax to be apportioned and levied upon taxable property of the several towns, villages, and cities in sums equal in amount to the school fund income apportioned to the said towns, villages, and cities by the state for the current year—$28,853.56. Total—$110,853.56.
Rock county will raise $108,853.56 for state purposes. Some of the items in this budget are: State schools, $22,780.62; Normal schools, $2,882.27; Common schools, $19,999.22; New Capitol, $13,073.47; Janesville hospital, $1,453.27. There are special charges against the county for inmates of asylums, industrial schools, and tuberculosis sanatorium totaling $5,078.37; special charges on the school districts amounting to $2,875.86; and from one and a quarter to one and three quarters millions to each of the several towns. Janesville's per cent of the tax will be 20.14; Beloit's, 18.45; Edgerton's, 15.58; and so on.

Today's Session.
Supt. Harless of the county farm addressed the board this morning regarding the collection of $3 a week from patients and inmates who have property or whose families are able to pay. A resolution was passed directing the district attorney to collect in the Prentiss case and Clinton and other instances.

General Claims Budget.
Supervisor T. J. Hughes submitted the report of Committee No. 10 allowing a number of general claims. Crow and Hawk bounty in twelve towns aggregated over $500. P. C. Grant was allowed $50 for taking testimony in the Wolcott case. The Hotel Myers was allowed $125 for the board of jurors. The Wisconsin Industrial school for girls gets $1,862.26 and the Home for the Feeble Minded $1,784.68. The trustees of the county asylum were allowed sums ranging from $60.95 to $106.88. Mrs. N. S. Starr, deputy to the supervisors of assessments, was allowed $100. M. D. Graves, for services as detective in running down a town of Rock "blind pig" was allowed $65. Dr. Edith Bartlett's claim for $200 was reported without recommendation and the board defeated a resolution introduced by Supervisor Richardson to allow her $50. H. W. Frick's claim for $50 for publishing an election notice in a German newspaper was held over until the January meeting, the committee reporting that they knew of no law under which he could be paid. Supervisor Simon Smith said that the election notice was printed in English in the aforesaid newspaper and therefore did not come under the provision allowing the county at their authorities in their discretion to have such notice printed in a foreign language.

The Bank and Green county claims for training school tuition also go over until the next session.

Soldiers' Relief.
Reporting for the Soldiers' Relief commission, L. M. Nelson showed that the total relief dispensed had been $5,136.43 and that there was a balance on hand of $3,251.55.

Will Finish Today.
Deputy Sheriff Floyd Carter's claim and the district attorney's opinion thereon were to have been a special order of business this forenoon but the matter cleared over to this afternoon. The district attorney had a box of cigars tucked under his arm as a farewell offering. Yesterday afternoon the County Fathers "smoked out" the newly elected District Attorney and the newly elected Highway Commissioner. They will receive their $3 per diem and mileage and adjourn until January just about sunset.

MAROONS CAPTURED THE HONORS LAST EVENING

Defeated the Chestnuts Two Out of Three Frames in Game at Hockett Alley.

By taking the first two of three frames of the bowling match with the Chestnuts, the Maroons team put the game "on ice" for themselves with a safe margin, but could not take the third frame, the third frame, Myr of the losing team, made the sensational run of the season, scoring 230 points. The interest in the league is being greatly aroused on account of the closeness of the race. With the Butternuts leading there are four teams tied for second place, and only one game behind the leaders. The details of last evening's contest:

Jesus in Gethsemane. Matt. xxvii. 36-50.

Golden Text—The Son of God is betrayed into the hands of sinners. Matt. xxvii. 45.

Verse 35—Where was this garden called Gethsemane?

Why does the word Gethsemane now stand for agony?

What purpose did prayer serve in this sorrowful experience of Jesus?

Verses 37-38—What answer can you make to the criticism which has been made, that Jesus would have shown a stronger character, and more faith, if he had borne this trial without suffering or fear?

Give your reasons and say whether it is possible to develop the strongest character with, or without, great suffering?

What is the benefit of human sympathy, when we are in great mental trouble?

Describe the cause which gave Jesus such keen suffering?

Why did Jesus select Peter and John, from the rest of the disciples, when he went on to the place of agony?

Verses 39—What "cup" did Jesus pray to be delivered from, the present agony, or the cross, or the sorrow of agony, or the cross, or the sorrow of agony?

Can any person retain the favor of God who is not always in the attitude of soul to say, "not as I will, but as thou wilt?"

Must every true prayer have the condition, "nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt," or are there some exceptions and, if so, what are they?

Verses 40—Why are we, like Jesus, so much hurt, when a confidential friend manifests so little concern in our trouble?

Why were these disciples blame for going to sleep, and are people to blame who go to sleep in church?

Verses 41—Is it, or is not, the fault of the spirit, when the flesh is too weak for a man to do his full duty? Why?

Verses 42-43—Why did Jesus need to ask God three times for the same thing?

What, if any, rule is there concerning the number of times we should pray for the same thing?

Did the disciples miss anything by not staying awake to watch with Jesus, if so, what?

Can a lost opportunity ever be recovered, or is it an eternal loss? Give your reasons. (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 47—What were the motives which prompted Judas to betray Jesus?

Did Judas expect Jesus to be actually put to death, or did he expect that he would escape his enemies as in the past? Why?

Why did the Jews waste money in paying Judas, when they apparently could have arrested Jesus without doing so?

Verses 48-50—Which is more hurtful to be betrayed by a friend with a kiss, or by an enemy with a blow?

MILITIA CALLED OUT TO PREVENT SPREAD OF SMALLPOX.

Home for the feeble minded at Lapeer, Mich. Governor Warner.

Lapeer, Mich.—The smallpox situation in this section of the state is considered most grave. Acting upon the recommendation of Dr. F. W. Shumway, secretary of the state board of health, and Health Officer Frazier of Lapeer, Governor Warner has ordered company A Third Infantry of Flint to Lapeer, where the guardsmen will watch the home for the feeble minded to prevent the inmates from escaping. There have been 25 cases of smallpox and six deaths from the disease in the institution.

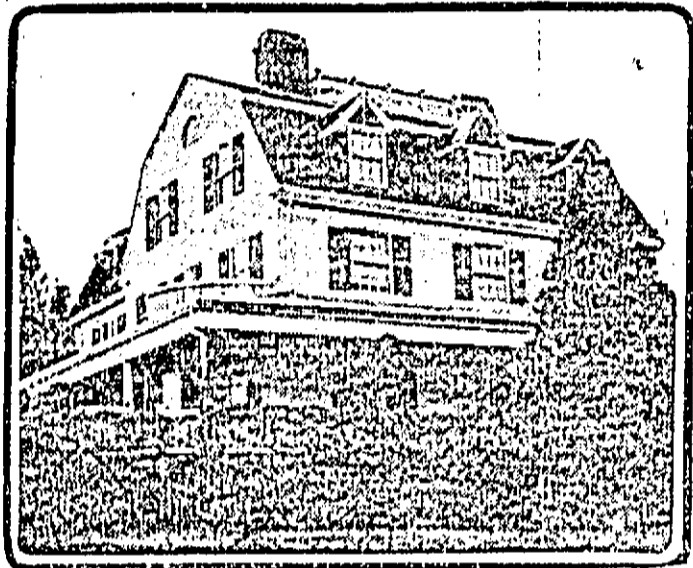

The department received notice this morning that the Nassar council had declared a quarantine against all persons and goods from Saginaw, Bay City also has practically quarantined Saginaw. Persons coming from Saginaw were inspected by special officers and regular police alike on both interurbans and trains. One man was taken off an interurban car by the guards who boarded the cars outside the city limits, but he proved not to have smallpox. The board of health has ordered the special guards and police to hold up all persons suspected of having the disease.

"One of the chief difficulties in fighting the epidemic," said Dr. Shumway, "is the disposition of physicians, newspapermen and businessmen in the afflicted localities to suppress the facts. There is smallpox in fourteen counties in the state and in 30 localities in those counties. The situation in Saginaw is still bad."

Dr. Shumway is wrought up over the action of two doctors, one in Chesaning and the other in Lapeer. The doctors, he says, are giving medicine and telling the people that vaccination is not necessary.

Who Knows?

A boy in a Chicago school refused to sew, evidently considering it beneath the dignity of a ten-year-old man. George Washington sewed," said the principal, taking it for granted, that a soldier must; "and do you consider yourself better than George Washington?" "I don't know, time will tell," said he, serenely.—Popular Education.

Freedom.

Indeed, the first point we have all to determine is not how free we are,

but what kind of creature we are.

It is of small importance to any of us whether we get "liberty," but of the greatest that we deserve it. Whether we can win it is a matter of course, but that we will be worthy of it we may ourselves determine; and the sorrowfullest fate of all that we can suffer is to have it without deserving it.—Ruskin.

CELEBRATION ON THURSDAY NEXT

HAND'D DOWN TO US FROM THE DAYS OF PLYMOUTH COLONY.

NOW A GENERAL HOLIDAY

Made So By Proclamation of Both the President and Governors of Different States.

In the United States there are four great holidays—Christmas, New Year's, Fourth of July, and Thanksgiving. Memorial day, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday and Labor day are minor days, not observed in all sections of the country, but the first four are national in their scope and marked on all calendars. Thanksgiving is a peculiar American holiday, one which some memorable event is commemorated, but Thanksgiving is the tribute of a loving nation to the memory of the Pilgrim Fathers, who braved the cold and bleak years on the Atlantic coast that we might become at last a free and independent nation.

Janetown had been settled in 1607 but the little Plymouth colony that landed on the New England coast in November of 1620 made the first real settlement in the cause of liberty on the American shores. It was not, however, until the following year that the first days of feasting and celebration, thanking the great God for the plentiful crop of the past season was held. It was a memorable occasion and we are told by writers of colonial lore that it lasted for three days. The little colony believed that had weathered their first difficulties and were now to succeed. These stern men and women perhaps followed the custom of the old homeland, England, in their form of harvest home festivals or perhaps they borrowed from the Dutch their holiday of deliverance of Holland from the Spaniards, but they began a custom that today has come down through the years to the present generation, becoming a national holiday.

Thanksgiving celebrations did not always come in November. Originally it was held in October, when all the crops were harvested and even in July of one year when a famine was relieved by the arrival of a ship from England with provisions to keep the starving colonists alive. The little party of religious men and women who landed one November day on the New England coast from the Mayflower had struggled through their first winter and summer in the new land. Their seed had been sown in the spring of 1621 and had grown most wonderfully. It had been watched carefully, for upon its success depended the life of the colonists. It is not strange that when the harvest was gathered, the grain harvested and preparations for the winter made that these religious men should offer thanks to God for all his mercies. It came in October this year and was a feast of three days to which their Indian neighbors were invited. Governor Bradford arranged the affair himself; his hunters provided the meats and Massasoit, the Indian chieftain, and friend of the colonists, graced the feast with his presence.

The following year saw the colonists again thrown in the depths of despair through the failure of the crop at almost planting time. The colonists had been increased in numbers by the arrival of other vessels with more settlers, some not as desirable as those who came at first. These later formed the Plymouth colony. To add to the discomfort of the little colony the food supply ran low. The new arrivals had not brought any provisions with them and lived off their friends. Troubles with the Indians followed and the settlers were afraid to develop more lands for cultivation fearing attacks by their former red friends. The harvest was not good, the winter came and much suffering was in store for the all. Consequently we find no record of any Thanksgiving this fall. The following spring saw the settlers again planting their crops and again disappointed. Drought threatened their crops, the corn withered and until July it seemed as though the year would be a failure. Then came the rains and hopes revived and with it the announcement that a ship from England with provisions was nearing the harbor.

It is small wonder that the governor should issue a proclamation that on July 30 there should be a day of thanksgiving. We may therefore justly claim this feast as the origin of Thanksgiving day, not only because it was both a religious and a social celebration, but also because it was the first time in the history of America that the governor appointed a day for Thanksgiving. February 22, 1631, occurred in Boston the first Thanksgiving day of which any written record remains in the colonial record of Massachusetts. The first joint observation was when in 1631 Governor Winthrop of Massachusetts Bay appointed a day of Thanksgiving and asked the governor of Plymouth Colony to unite in its celebration.

In the Plymouth records of 1685 is found the first Thanksgiving proclamation which makes mention of the harvest in these words: "It hath pleased God in some comfortable measure to bless us in the fruits of the earth." November 25 was the day appointed. Our annual Thanksgiving festival has been the appropriate symbol of the family spirit from the beginning. When our forefathers, as the year came around and the harvest was gathered, were moved by their devout feelings to render thanks to the bountiful Giver of all good, they did it by households.

Children Taught to Save. Children attending elementary schools in Devonshire, England, are to be taught the virtue of thrift. The use of the savings bank is to be explained to them and in every school in which a postoffice savings bank is not available the educational authorities recommend that a "penny" bank be established.

LARGE SALES OF WISCONSIN LEAF

Trust Reported to Have Purchased Much Wisconsin Leaf During the Past Week.

According to the Edgerton Reporter, another big block of Wisconsin leaf has passed out of local packers' hands during the week, aggregating four to five thousand cases all told, and the most gratifying thing of these deals is that trading was carried on in every year's growth from 1906 to 1910. The inference might be drawn that there is a healthy demand developing in the market for everything that fills the requirements of the binder trade. When one cannot obtain the market stands ready to accept any other year's growth, though preference might be had for the later years' tobacco because of its leafiness and general soundness it is especially desirable for binder purposes. But if the trade cannot get exactly what it wants in times when the manufacturing business is flourishing it is less critical and exacting than at other times. It develops, too, that the big trust is short on cigar leaf supply, for the large purchases of the week have been made for the account of the American Cigar company. It is the large consumers that are first to note the shortage in binder supplies and first to provide themselves with ample stocks for future needs. Nearly all the old leaf taken out of the market during the flurry of the past few weeks has gone to the larger manufacturing concerns.

The buying of last season's tobacco crop is quietly proceeding but each week is absorbing quite large portions of the unsold fraction which is now reduced to the last third—at least. Prices are pretty well maintained as will be observed below:

Old O. Leaf, 3a at 10c.

 L. H. Hyland, 4a at 8c.
 And. Dalsoren, 14a at 8c.
 John Hanson, 8a at 8c.

Another big block of cured leaf has been lifted from local packers during the week, aggregating several thousand cases, and include a 7000 case packing of McGiffin & Birkenmeyer at Janesville, 15000 case of Row & Erickson at Stoughton, with other small lots reaching nearly 3,000 cases to American Cigar Co. A. Jensen & Sons sold 3500 case. The Hanson Bros. sold 11000 case to Decker, J. Lomas & Co. 10000 case to Spitzner.

Some leaf is also moving from first hands. S. P. Eckvald sold 325 case and Ed. Gunder, 1000 case to A. Jensen & Sons.

There has been no casing weather as yet and hope winter weather will not set in without rains. The shipments out of storage reach 1,18000 cases from this market to all points for the week past.

Steinhilber, supervisor of assessment for Green Co., was paid a high compliment by the Green Co. board of supervisors in session here, when they re-elected him to serve in spite of his protest he was paid a high compliment by the Green county board of supervisors in session here, when they re-elected him to serve in spite of his protest he was not made a candidate and wished to serve. He received fifteen votes out of twenty-seven cast, but stood by his declaration made a year ago, that he would not again serve. David Albright, of Clarno, was then elected to fill the vacancy. Wm. M. Hubert will again be county highway commissioner, by unanimous vote, and William Ferguson was re-elected asylum trustee and poor commissioner.

Mothers' Meeting. The first mother's meeting of the year was held in the south building at the close of school yesterday afternoon. Over seventy-five mothers responded to invitations to the meeting sent out by Miss Clara Zumbrohn, instructor in the first grade, and Miss Helen Griffith, kindergarten teacher. Several instructive talks were given by the teachers in regard to the work of the various pupils and refreshments were also served. The meeting served to more thoroughly acquaint the parents with the instructors and gave them a better insight into what line of work their children were engaged in.

Local News.

The grade pupils of the center building noted a snug little sum toward the office improvement fund by the sale of home made candies. The sweets had a ready sale and the demand was only partially filled when the candy was all sold. Another sale will be held soon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Young leave tomorrow on their western trip, making the first stop at Denver where they will attend Thanksgiving turkey. They will also stop in Kansas City, and will then go to California where they expect to remain during the winter months.

Willis Ludlow, R. W. Church, R. H. Gifford, and Andrew Trickle are on a night near Attica. They are provided with a camping outfit.

A Game of Chance.

Good negatives are very largely a matter of accident, writes Giles Edgerton, in the Craftsman. Given the utmost care and wisdom in the selection of subjects and time, it is nevertheless true that the novice may secure with his kodak a more artistic negative than the trained veteran, and that the veteran himself will get the most artistic negative largely as a result of chance.

FORMER EVANSVILLE GIRL WAS MARRIED IN OREGON

Happy Event Took Place Wednesday at the Home of the Bride's Parents.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Nov. 17.—The Misses Lillian Gibbs and Marian Ames and Paul Ames were in Oregon yesterday to attend the wedding of Miss Lenora Comstock to Frank N. Cole. As the bride was formerly an employee of the Mercantile Association of this city the following notes in regard to her wedding will prove of interest to her numerous friends here. The ceremony took place at two thirty o'clock in the home of her parents in the presence of about seventy-five relatives and friends.

The bride was exquisitely decorated, her dress and train being made to carry out a color scheme of pink and white. The bride looked unusually pretty in a gown of white satin and carried "bride's roses." The singing of "Oh, Promise Me" by Miss Sadie Ames of Brooklyn, was followed by Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Lella Comstock. The double ring service was used, Little Marvella Comstock and Master Curtis Richards acting as ring bearers. After the ceremony a five course luncheon was served, after which the bride and groom left immediately on their honeymoon trip. For more than a year the bride has been employed in Chicago as saleslady in the millinery department of Marshall Field and the groom is in the passenger service of the C. and N. W. Ry. The couple will be at home to their friends in Chicago after Dec. 1st.

Personal.

Mrs. Elmer Bullard has returned from Oshkosh where she has been spending the past two or three weeks with her husband who has employment there. Their daughter, Mrs. Amy Burns, of Chicago, is here to spend some time with her mother.

Charles Johnson will be the guest of relatives in Delavan Saturday and Sunday.

W. J. Phillips transacted business in Whitewater yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Morrison of Milwaukee spent Sunday with Evansville relatives. They were starting on a trip to Philadelphia and came to leave their little daughter, Marlin, with her mother, Mrs. Albert Webb, until their return.

Mrs. T. B. Lewis was pleasantly surprised yesterday afternoon by seven of her neighbors and friends who came in to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. After an enjoyable social time refreshments were served, Mrs. Lewis received many beautiful gifts as remembrances of the happy occasion and was also the recipient of numerous post cards and congratulatory messages from out of town friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reese and Mr. and Mrs. Arford Lewis of Albany were here yesterday to attend the funeral of Miss Alice Williams.

Mrs. Ellen Loveland, who has been spending several weeks with relatives in this vicinity, left Tuesday for her home in Corona, S. D.

Mrs. Burr Tolles and son, Donald, are spending a few days at the home of Miss Lela in Porter.

Mrs. M. L. Ellis entertained a company of little folks at her home yesterday afternoon in honor of the seventh birthday of her little son, Fay.

Mrs. Marvin Patterson and daughter, Genevieve, have returned to Harbison after a few days' visit to relatives.

Mrs. Harriet Stockwell is home from a week's visit to relatives in Janesville.

Joseph West is spending the week in Holst.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson and son, Leon, and Miss Alma Hunt of Beloit, were guests of local relatives and friends for a short time the first of the week.

DEBATE QUESTION HAS BEEN CHOSEN

High School Debating League Will Discuss the Commission Form of Government.

After submitting a list of five questions to the various members of the debating league which is conducted under the auspices of Beloit college, a subject has been selected for the debating series. The question reads:

Resolved: that the cities of Illinois and Wisconsin having a population not more than 200,000 inhabitants, should adopt the commission plan of government.

Representatives of the different schools that belong to the league will meet with Professor Crawford, the head of the public speaking department of Beloit, who has the matter in charge and will decide, on the exact wording of the question, on the schedule of the debates and will make other necessary arrangements. Janesville debaters will start work at once on the question in readiness for the contest which will be held with Beloit high school early in the winter. The commission form of government is a live topic and plenty of material can be gathered regarding it in way of preparation.

VENTILATOR

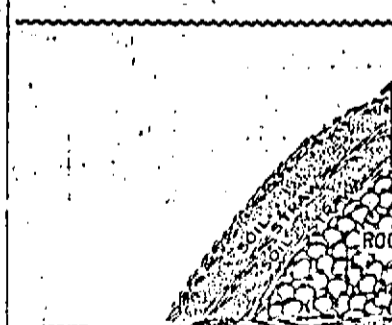

Diagram showing one practical and economical way for winter storage of roots.

Madison, Wis.—The best place to store roots is in a root cellar near where the roots are to be used. Such a cellar may be a part of a barn, basement, or it may be built conveniently near to the stock barn.

In most places the root house can be built most economically of concrete. Ordinarily cement is the only material that has to be purchased. The gravel and sand are usually available at no great distance on most farms. While the temperature in a root house should never fall to the freezing point, it should be at a low point for best results in keeping roots.

When no cellar is available, roots may be stored in pits, designed according to the following suggestions by the Wisconsin Agricultural station. For fall and early winter feeding, they need not be covered to any great depth. The roots are put in a conical pile about 4 feet in diameter on a bed of clean straw, then covered with a layer of 2 inches of long straw. The root pit should stand on well drained ground and should be surrounded by a drain to prevent the ground becoming logged. Clean rye straw is preferred for this purpose. The straw at the apex of the pile is made to form a chimney 5 or 6 inches in diameter for ventilation. Dirt should be thrown on the pile to a depth of 6 inches; then a second layer of straw or coarse horse manure on the outside where the roots are desired for early winter feeding. The roots are piled as high as possible so as to shed water. When wanted for feeding the whole pile is taken into the barn at once.

The drawing shows a pit intended to remain over winter. This provides for two layers of straw and two of earth. A ventilator made of ditch boards is placed at the apex. When severe freezing weather sets in the ventilator is stuffed tightly with fine hay.

In such a pit roots will keep without freezing even in the coldest winters. The piles may be made oblong instead of conical in shape, retaining the gable form. While pits do very well so far as keeping the roots is concerned, it must be understood that they are but makeshift at best. A root house which is well planned at all times is much more satisfactory and more economical in the long run.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

INFANT'S SUMMER DISORDER.

Vomiting and purging in the infant indicate that the milk is unsuitable. Immediate resort to "sterilized milk" may overcome the difficulty, but the warning should not be neglected. Injections of tepid water with three or four spoonfuls of lsterine to each quart and boiled water at feeding time for 24 hours may restore the normal condition. Cow's milk is much more difficult to digest than the natural food and the natural immunity to disease conveyed through the mother's milk is largely weakened by the artificial feeding. Hence when the defensive powers of the infant system meet an added burden in milk containing a greatly increased percentage of disease-producing germs and other extraneous matter, it may be unable to maintain normal nutrition, especially if it is already weak and if air, light, temperature and the environment otherwise be unfavorable. The extreme heat in summer is unfavorable in weakening the powers of nutrition.

FRECKLES

November Worst Month For This Trouble—How to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly everybody is freckled by the winds of Autumn, but happily there is also a cure for those ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get one ounce of Othine—double strength from The Badger Drug Co. and apply a little of it at night, and in the morning you will see that even the worst have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they will stay all winter and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as it is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

THE right use of money is to accomplish what you wish with it.

Mary Lyons, founder of Mt. Holyoke.

Do you know I wish I were clever enough to edit a woman's dictionary containing some of the words that the feminine sex seems to need to have defined.

"Extravagance" and "economy," for instance. On a little fifty-mile train trip that I took yesterday, I counted four women on the train wearing white gloves.

They were not dressed expensively—you could have bought every stitch any one of them had on, from undergarments to pump, and from skin to coat, for a hundred dollars and yet, were I a man with a moderate income looking for a reasonably economical wife, these are the sort of women I would at once place as impossible.

Why? Because, using the word in its right meaning, I consider that those white gloves represented more extravagance than far larger expenditures, a twenty-dollar willow plume, or eight dollar shoes, for instance.

For my idea of sartorial extravagance is not, as so many women consider it, just spending a lot of money on your clothes. Nor do I think economy conversely is spending very little money.

I think extravagance is "spending your money without getting good value for it, and economy is the converse."

To sum it up in Mary Lyons's words: "The right use of money is to accomplish what you wish with it."

White gloves cost more than dark gloves in initial outlay, in greater fragility, and in changing expense whether of time or money.

Used for everyday wear, on a train or shopping excursion, they are both bad taste and unattractive, because even if they are perfectly fresh when they are put on they will be badly soiled by the time they are taken off.

Presumably these women spent more money to clothe themselves in white gloves in order to look extra well. They must emphatically did not accomplish what they wished with their outlay. Therefore, I call them extravagant.

I'm not writing all this to inveigh against the habit of wearing white gloves on all occasions. I have no especial grudge against white gloves. I simply take them as typical of the hundred and one little ways in which the American woman, especially that class of her who can least afford it, is extravagant.

She buys fragile and delicately colored materials for everyday wear; she buys ultra styles in cheap grade when she ought to buy a two season style in a better grade; she purchases elaborate and unsuitable accessories, such as white gloves and fragile furs.

As a consequence she looks well dressed for a brief time and very poorly dressed for a very long time. She is spending her money to be well dressed and because of her lack of judgment she fails of her object.

And that's what I call extravagance, money spent without judgment. Don't you?

And don't you think it would be a grand idea if this kind of woman could have Mary Lyons's definition pasted over their dressers, or better still, printed on their pay envelopes.

"The right use of money is to accomplish what you wish with it."

THOUGHT AND WORK.

By MARY RUSSELL.

To think is not enough in this life. We may will to have certain things happen but if we are to realize our desires we will have to get out and make them happen.

Too many people think they are thinking when they are merely wishing. They have day dreams and call them aspirations.

They build air castles and imagine they have laid the foundation of a home.

I know a man who is always telling his children what he will do for them when he gets "on Easy Street."

He intends to buy them everything that heart can desire. He enumerates the beautiful garments he wears in shop windows. He talks of colleges and trips abroad. He begins to think that because he greatly desires to give them these things, he has a right to the same gratitude that would be his did he pour into their lives all these delights.

Those children will get their chance but it will be in spite of the father, rather than because of his contributions. They will have accomplishments which their mother has given them. If she were not hampered by having to be the wife of such an excuse for a man, she would probably take better care of them in every way than they are now being cared for.

All because, aiming at the best, she is ready to do more than "dream" of it.

He does not deny himself any of the small comforts as he goes along. He smokes and when he wishes takes what he calls a social glass. He plays a card game that is kept to "gentle" mainly figures. I use that term, not because I know where the line is drawn between gambling for small stakes or for large ones, but because I heard a man use it in defense of "small stakes to make a game interesting."

In the meantime the mother is working hard to give the children advantages. She goes without much and even earns money by using her nimble fingers and more nimble wits in the service of others. She makes, and mends, and repairs, and contrives so that the children shall hold their place among their mates. She studies with them that they may make good grades in school. She is laying out plans for the college career in putting by small sums of money which she herself earns.

Those children will get their chance but it will be in spite of the father, rather than because of his contributions. They will have accomplishments which their mother has given them. If she were not hampered by having to be the wife of such an excuse for a man, she would probably take better care of them in every way than they are now being cared for.

All because, aiming at the best, she is ready to do more than "dream" of it.

reaching her aim. She works! You may work at drudgery without using your brains, and then you will fail.

You may use your brains without putting your ideas to the test of practical demonstration, and then you will fail.

You may dream all day long and have night but dreams for reward, or you may work without dreams and sink to the level of machinery.

To arrive at a man must work and dream. He must hope for great things and bend every energy to the realization of that hope.

All things come to him who only sits and waits. I used to hear that when I was a child, and I remember I saw in my childish vision, wealth and power, and social success, the conquest of school problems and the lover of a girl's dreams, all in a ray, and, dashing circle, like the carousal ring of fantastic creatures, prancing about me. I would merely have, to reach out for what I wanted—if the saying were true.

Now I know that the ring is large enough to circle the globe and that it goes at a snail's pace—if I am too slow to get out and make things hum to my own tune.

Perhaps all things will come—in this incarnation or another—but if you mean to live in the highest and noblest sense, you must make your dreams come true.

Having conceived a purpose, let nothing swerve you from its accomplishment. If you see but a short way before you drive till you reach the bend in the road—life will have infinite distances and glorious prospects if you will keep the vision of the idealist and the energy of the practical worker.

Both are needed to make success of life. To dream what you want, and then make the dream "come true."

If you only think, hard enough—that is the poet's word for thinking and doing. Thoughts may be things. At least they are potent for good or bad. In this world, "But" is I make me, we the whiffles they must be coupled with actions. Dreams, not words—action coupled with thoughts—this is the real measure of success.

The M. E. bazaar Wednesday proved a great success and the net profits were about $60.

The Amenities of Oysters.

One of the most profound remarks ever made by that profound philosopher, Thackeray, was when he passed two tubs of oysters side by side, and he saw one was labeled "12, a dozen" and the other "12, 3d, a dozen." He exclaimed, "How those oysters must hate each other!"

Well, even an oyster may be crossed in love, and William Dean Howells has another tale to tell about the psychology of the oyster. At one of the little suppers that the poet Longfellow gave to the brilliant Cambridge circle James Russell Lowell paused with the pepper box poised above his plate of oysters to say whimsically, "It's astonishing how these fellows love pepper."

"Dear me! You don't say so!" ejaculated a nice, prosy old gentleman who used to sleep through the suppers. The temptation was too strong to be resisted, and Lowell was fairly launched into an account of how a red pepper accidentally dropped into a basket of oysters had been drawn out with half a dozen of the bivalves clinging to it when the ever gentle Longfellow interposed to save his matter of fact old friend.

Grandma's Destination in Doubt.

Ethel is of the mature age of five. Recently her grandmother concluded that it devolved on her to instruct the child in religious matters.

"You must be a good girl, Ethel," she said. "Then you will go to heaven when you die."

Ethel seemed scarcely pleased with this reward for exceptional conduct. "Don't you want to go to heaven?" asked grandma with a look of reproach.

"Oh, I don't know," temporized Ethel. "I guess not."

"Why not?" demanded grandma severely.

"Because maybe I couldn't get out," answered Ethel.

"You wouldn't want to get out," repeated grandma.

"Oh, yes, I should," returned Ethel with conviction.

"No," argued grandma. "You would not. Why should you want to get out of heaven?"

"Why?" answered Ethel. "I guess I'd want to go and see you once in awhile, wouldn't I?"

"What it was."

"It is possible," said the speaker, "that some of you have heard the story I am about to tell you, but—"

"Possible," interrupted a little man away down at one of the tables in the farthest corner. "It's a cinch."

Light Attracts Customers.

In the downtown section of a city the theater audiences come and go through two avenues leading to car lines. A haberdasher has a shop in a side street between these two channels of travel, at a much more reasonable rent than he would have to pay on the avenues. Study of the conditions convinced him that the theatergoers took those avenues, not because they were especially convenient, nor as a matter of habit, but simply because they were light. When he put up an electric sign big enough to light his section of the dark side street he diverted enough travel past his window every night to increase materially the daily sales.—Saturday Evening Post.

RENTS

Landlords and property owners are confronted with three difficult problems:

1—Tenants sometimes depart without paying their rent.

2—You don't always know to whom you are renting, and whether they are responsible or not.

3—By not having a capable agent to collect the money the moment it is due you, tenants often get behind with their rents.

We will gladly relieve you of the burden of solving these problems if you will come to us. We will collect your back rents. We will investigate the financial responsibility of your prospective tenants. We will attend to the collection of your rent, all for a reasonable fee. We will collect any old claims you may have on hand.

A Cornwall Thanksgiving.

A service of thanksgiving for the harvest of the sea was conducted in the mission church at Port Isaac amid curious surroundings, the fisherfolk having lent crabpots, fish boxes, oars, nets and other fishing tackle for purposes of decoration.—London Standard.

Purpose.

Did you ever hear of a man who had striven all his life faithfully and steadily toward an object and in no measure obtained it? If a man constantly aspires, he is not elevated? Did ever a man try hard, truth, sincerity and find that there was no advantage in them—that is was a vain endeavor?

—H. D. Thoreau.

Valuable Advice.

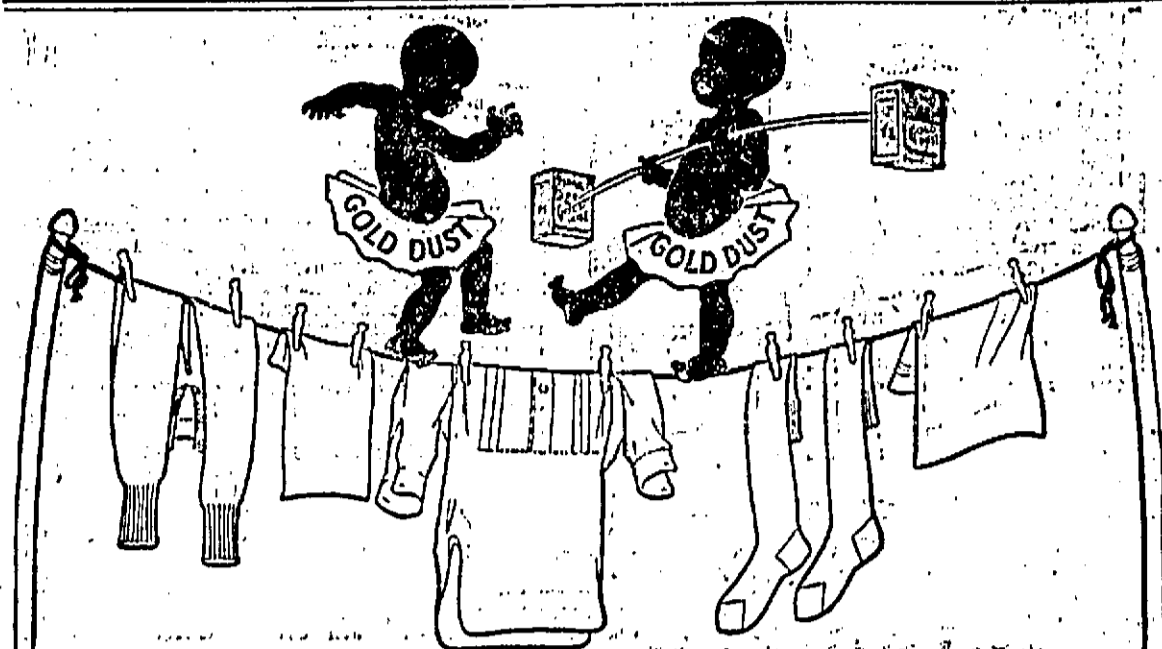

"You are always asking me for advice, but you never seem to take any that I give." "I know it. You see, I am frequently, in doubt, before I consult you, as to what is the best thing not to do."

Friend of Horticulturists.

"Daniel" William Conilllett knows more about insects harmful to vegetable growth than any other man, though he is only fifty-four years old. Since 1896 he has been honorary custodian of insects in the United States National Museum at Washington, but before that he had done a large amount of effective work in the farms and in the orchards of Illinois and California. Grasshoppers, caterpillars and the microscopic pests which injure fruit trees are his especial prey, and it was through his efforts that ladybirds were imported to exterminate the cottony cushion scale dreaded by horticulturists.

Monarchy Still Has Friends.

Recently there was received by cable a brief story about a movement in the state of Minas, Brazil, against the state government, which went so far as the ousting of the governor of the state. The remarkable purpose of the uprising is learned from Brazilian papers. The discontented ones were monarchists who sought to reestablish the empire of Brazil. The movement came just about the time that the Portuguese were dethroning their king and establishing a republic. It having taken them many years to follow the example of their Brazilian kinsmen who deposed Dom Pedro, emperor of Brazil.

"We Will Fight It Out On This Line But It Won't Take All Summer"

—The Gold Dust Twins

Gold Dust is always fighting for cleanliness. Dirt is its arch enemy, and is put to rout wherever the yellow package bearing the picaninnies appears.

Use Gold Dust for every form of cleaning about your home—on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Read directions on the package, and learn of its manifold uses.

Gold Dust does more work, better work and more kinds of work than soap or any other cleanser in the world. It has stood the test for over 25 years, has increased steadily in sales and prestige, and is today the leader in the cleanser line. Don't be put off with a substitute which will do but a small part of the work of Gold Dust.

Use Gold Dust for washing clothes and dishes, scrubbing floors, cleaning woodwork, oil-cloth, silverware and tinware, polishing brass-work, cleaning bathroom pipes, refrigerators, etc., softening hard water and making finest soft soap.

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia, or Kerosene with Gold Dust. Gold Dust has all desirable cleaning qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The Gold Dust Twins need no outside help.

Although straws usually tell which way the wind blows, occasionally even the proverbial straw proves misleading.

Previously to entering the railroad yards an abashed loafer picked up a small, glittering object from the sidewalk and, without examining it very closely, plunked it to his coat. Three minutes later he collided with a slowly moving freight train, was hurled against a post and picked up insensibly.

many cases of female ills, such as in-
